U. S. MAY DEMAN BRITISH APOLOGY

State Department Anxious for Reply On Greenbrier Incident.

MEN PUT UNDER ARREST

Crews of Two Ships Released by German Officials, State Department Heads.

The deep undercurrent of opinion at the State Department and at the Navy Department is that the case of the American vessel Greenbrier, whose flag is said to have been pulled down by officers of a British war vessel, is the most important and serious which has arisen between the United States and Great Britain during the present war.

In the Navy Department the position taken and held tenaciously yesterday as it was the day before, is that the act of the British cruiser was absolutely unwarranted. The hope is that there has been a mis-statement of the circumstances or a misunderstanding of the circumstances in the official report of the affair. If the account was correct, officers say, Great Britain must offer redress to the United States by way of apology, which will, of course, include a disavowal by the British government of the acts of the commander of the British cruiser. All authorities agree that if Great Britain should defend the lowering of the American flag under the circumstances now officially before the State Department and before the British government through Ambassador Page, a portentous issue will have arisen between the two governments.

Crew Under Arrest.

Secretary Bryan announced yesterday that he had received a dispatch from the United States consul at Bremen reporting the detention there last week of a number of the sailors of the steamship Carolyn and Greenbrier.

The diplomatic interest in this event, however, was discounted by the statement of the consul at Bremen that the sailors had been released and were at liberty to join the vessels when they sailed. It is expected that the State Department will have an official mail report in a few days from the consul and on this it will be decided whether representations shall be made to Germany.

The Carolyn is one of three vessels which sailed from United States ports loaded with cotton for Bremen under the impression that they would not be molesting in transit. The Carolyn did not enter port safely, but the Greenbrier was held up. The Carolyn touched at Falmouth, England, and it is supposed that this fact induced the German authorities to detain some of the crew. The Greenbrier also touched at a British port, Kirkwall.

FINDS CELL AT END OF RAINBOW CAREER

"British Cotton Man," Who Invaded
Memphis and Set Society by Ears, Held for Frauds.

Montgomery, Ala., Jan. 21.—James House is under arrest here on charges preferred by Federal District Attorney Harry H. Fisher, of Memphis, who says House's fraudulent purchases of cotton in Memphis and throughout the South will reach more than $2,000,000.

House came to Memphis in 1911 representing himself as president of the British Cotton Company, of Manchester, England. He is alleged to have bought cotton on fraudulent credentials and shipped it to England and borrowed money on bills of lading. He is held for using the mails to defraud.

While in Memphis he entertained lavishly, so the Federal authorities say, and was engaged to two wealthy girls.

U. S. CAN KEEP SOME GOLD.

Willis Says Reserve Act Will Help
Country Keep Its Specie.

"If the Federal reserve act does all that is expected it will prevent the United States again losing all of its gold specie to Europe, as was the case last summer at the beginning of the European war, and as happened once before during the Cleveland administration."

This statement was made by Parker Willis, secretary of the Federal Reserve Board, speaking on "The Federal Reserve Act in Relation to Foreign Bankers' Credit of the United States," at the American Institute of Banking, at its weekly meeting, held at the Willard hotel last night.

The transfer of specie abroad has been controlled by the current rate of exchange, he said. "The trouble has been that the determination of the rate of exchange of the United States has been made from conditions that had nothing to do with commercial credit. Conditions abroad, and in Europe, do not correspond. In Europe a fluctuation of 5 per cent in the bank rate is epoch-making. Here the stock market rate is jerky, and frequently varies 2 or 3 per cent without causing any alarm."

MUST PRESERVE WARD'S FAITH.

Guardian Cannot Teach Child His Religion, Court Rules.

New York, Jan. 21.—Surrogate Powell has decided that Rev. Antonio A. Arrighi, a Protestant clergyman, cannot be appointed guardian of Adriana Mancini, fourteen years old, who has been cared for by his wife and himself for five years, unless he agrees to preserve the Catholic faith of the child to be educated.

The question came up on the application of the girl's brother, to be appointed guardian so that he could take her from the clergyman because Mr. Arrighi has not reared her in the Catholic faith, as he is alleged to have promised when she was entrusted to his care.

Ever Hear of Such Things?

Paris, Jan. 21.—Maj. Derckle, of the French army medical corps, has been wounded ninety-seven times. The majority of his injuries were slight. He is anxious to return to the front soon.

New York, Jan. 21.—The playing of "Tipperary" by the musicians at Shanley's restaurant averted a panic when a small blaze started in the kitchen.

New York, Jan. 21.—A score of lodgers at the municipal lodging-house were taken to the morgue to make kindling wood of a hundred or more pine coffins. The work was not pleasing and they deserted one by one. Only five remained to complete the task.

GREGORY STARTS PROBE OF HIGH MEAT PRICES

First Move Is to Have District Attorney at St. Paul Report Upon Flour Conditions.

The first move by the Department of Justice as a result of President Wilson's order that an inquiry be conducted into the rise of wheat prices was made yesterday, when instructions were sent United States District Attorney Alfred Jacques at St. Paul to look into the flour situation. Hitherto the government's investigation has been confined for the most part to the steps taken by District Attorney Clyde at Chicago with the view of determining the legality of wheat transactions there.

Department of Justice officials said its Chicago inquiry naturally had developed little information regarding the rise in flour prices except insofar as it depended upon the price of wheat.

It was indicated that Attorney General Gregory is satisfied that there are other elements in the fixing of our prices which may be subjected to illegal influence, and which ought to be looked into immediately as a result of the President's demand for a thorough investigation.

The department has made an investigation into the relations between the Minneapolis Board of Trade and the millers in that vicinity. Charges frequently have been made that combinations existed between this body and the millers throughout which worked serious disadvantage to the farmers producing wheat. The department sent a special attorney to a recent convention of wheat farmers held at Minneapolis which was called to devise ways and means for protecting the farmers against manipulations by the millers and organizations controlled by them.

CHARGE LAWBREAKING IN BANKING AFFAIRS

First Uniontown, (Pa.) National Was Conducted in Reckless Fashion for Ten Years, Says Comptroller.

Charges of lawbreaking by person responsible for the practices of the First National Bank of Uniontown, Pa., which closed its doors last week, are contained in a statement issued by Comptroller of the Currency John Skelton Williams last night. The statement embodies a general description of the operations of the institution in the past two years, and sets forth the conditions which the Comptroller's office sought through a period of several months to remedy.

The State declares that the First Uniontown National was essentially a "one man" bank, in that direct and indirect loans made to J. V. Thompson, its president, amounted to $1,147,000, more than one-half the entire deposits. It is stated that in the last ten years these direct and indirect loans to Thompson had been running at approximately $1,000,000. The direct reference to lawbreaking is contained in a statement following the discussion of the loans to Thompson, which sets forth that "meanwhile other reckless and unlawful practices which had been in force for a period of years were stopped."

Mr. Rose Welch, who represents Luthers Bank in the East, has presented Manager L. M. Boomer, of the Hotel McAlpin, with one of the newest products of the noted horticulturist's art. This is a pansy more than twice the ordinary size, and so hardy that the flower will bloom for several months of the year.

Mr. Boomer has arranged to place a number of these novel plants in the flower urns throughout the McAlpin.
